£3M TREEHOUSE CANCER CENTRE

Support charity opens in Oxford hospital grounds

A NEW £3million cancer respite centre has been unveiled in Oxford after a charity spent the last eight years working in temporary buildings.

Maggie's, which provide free practical, emotional and social support for people with cancer and their families, opened its treehouse-inspired centre in the grounds of the Churchill Hospital on Monday.

TV presenter Kirstie Allsopp, film director Richard Curtis and writer Paul Mayhew Archer officially opened the centre.

The facility is opposite the Cancer and Haematology Centre and is set within a wooded area and supported by stilts.

Maggie's chief executive Laura Lee said: "We started off with a vision and we knew we had a magical bit of land.

"The views make you feel you are in a nature reserve and when people come in here you can see them breathing differently just as a result of being able to see right through the trees.

"The trees bring an ambiance into the building that is so supportive and helps us do our work."

A full programme of support, including stress and relaxation workshops and creative writing courses have been running from the centre since July.

Ms Allsopp, whose mother died of breast cancer in January said she was honoured to open the centre.

She added: "I realised the importance and value of having the right support to complement medical treatment.

"Maggie's programme of support provides this for people and their centres are warm places where you can find answers to questions and meet people who understand what you are going through."

Becci Berry, 41, from Cholsehill near Faringdon and David Freeman, 70 from Shipton on Cherwell near Kidlington, both benefited from Maggie's care in its temporary building as their partners battled cancer.

Mrs Berry, a dairy farmer, lost husband Richard to bowel cancer and secondary liver metastases in February 2011.

Fake GHD hairdryer bursts into flames

A WITNEY company director was fined after a fake designer hairdryer burst into flames while being tested by Oxfordshire's trading standards officers.

Maddison Hawk, 27, of Mallard Drive, Witney, admitted four trade mark offence charges for her company Perfect Strand Ltd at Oxford Magistrates' Court on Tuesday, October 14.

Posing as a customer, an Oxfordshire County Council Trading Standards officer bought two gift sets of GHD hair stylers and GHD hair dryers on trading website Amazon.

One of the hairdryers caught fire while it was being tested because it did not have a thermal cut-off fitted.

By Katriona Ormiston
katriona@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Trading Standards team leader Ann Prashar, who prosecuted Hawk, said: "Two of Hawk's products were tested and during this process a hair dryer actually caught fire, because it was defective.

"It was extremely lucky that this happened during a test rather than when somebody was using the product on their hair as it could have resulted in serious injury."

The products were also sent to GHD who confirmed that they were counterfeits.

Hawk also pleaded guilty to a charge relating to supplying a product which failed to comply with electrical equipment safety regulations.

She was fined £2,500 - £500 for each of the offences - ordered to pay a total of £5,838 in costs, and £100 in victim surcharges.

Ms Prashar added: "People may be tempted when they spot cheap designer branded products online and think that they are the genuine product.

"Unfortunately as this case shows, there are sellers out there who take advantage.

"Oxfordshire County Council's Trading Standards team became aware that Perfect Strand Ltd had fake GHD hair products for sale online and successfully carried out a test purchase."

Deputy leader of Oxfordshire County Council, Rodney Rose, who has Cabinet responsibility for Trading Standards, was pleased with the outcome.

He said: "This is another great result for Oxfordshire Trading Standards.

"I hope this case acts as a deterrent to others out there who may be thinking of selling fake goods and also as a warning to buyers who are not sure if what they see for sale is a genuine product.

County connects to hi-fi and web

ALL of Oxford city's buses and public buildings will have Wi-Fi by April next year.

Oxford City Council secured £5million of funding from the Department of Culture, Media and Sport to deliver the scheme.

Super Connected Oxford will see all Oxford Bus Company and Stagecoach buses installed with Wi-Fi by the end of November.

And all free entry public buildings such as The Ashmolean Museum will have Wi-Fi by April 2015.

Bob Price, leader of the city council, said: "The city council is building a world class city for its residents and for the nearly 10 million visitors that we receive each year.

"Wi-Fi access is a crucial element in providing information and guidance to visitors as well as facilitating business and social communications.

Oxfordshire County Council's department of culture, media and sport and BT have funded a scheme to spread fibre-enabled broadband across the county too.

Super fast broadband is now available to an extra 4,000 homes and businesses in the Oxfordshire.

Work has spread to the rural areas of the county and now 1,300 premises in the villages of Kennington, Wootton and Boars Hill have efficient internet speeds.

Over 1,600 homes and businesses in the villages of Sutton Courtenay, Cholsey, Harwell and Charlbury have also been installed with broadband.

£5.5m Frideswide Square designs add in cycle ways

FINAL designs for Oxford's £5.5million Frideswide Square redevelopment include new cycle routes running on pedestrianised areas, plans revealed on Tuesday.

The cycle ways within paved areas were included in a designs document published on Tuesday after a public consultation on the revamp, which ran from August 14 to September 12.

Previous plans showed bikes had to use dedicated cycle lanes on roads.

Oxfordshire County Council's cabinet is due to confirm the revised plans at County Hall in New Road on Tuesday, October 21.

A report by head of city development Michael Crofton-Briggs said: "After lengthy consideration of the issues involved the county council is proposing that cycling should be allowed on the central areas of the two largest public spaces in the square in order to allow cyclists if they wish to pass through the square away from general traffic.

"The intentions is that the areas as highlighted on the plan, are sufficiently large to allow cyclists and pedestrians to share them comfortably and safely."

The report cited that cyclists and pedestrians share space in New Inn Hall Street, Bonn Square and the south end of Cattle Street in Oxford already.

Preparation works for the revamp are already underway.

Last month work started to make Becket Street two way, create a new mini roundabout in Oxpens Road at the junction with Osney Lane and Hollybush Row, and re-open the junction of George Street, Hythe Bridge Street and Worchester Street. These works are due to be finished in early December.

The main building work in Frideswide Square is due to start in February and finish in early December 2015.

Of the £5.5m work, £3.3m is funded by Oxfordshire County Council, £700,000 is from Oxford City Council and £1.5m is from developer contributions.

Families praise 'critical' support

*From front

She said: "We staggered into Maggie's and were picked up by some lovely ladies who sat us down, made us a cup of tea and said 'this is what we can do to help'.

"When you suffer from cancer you are at the Churchill an awful lot of the time. It is so critical that it is this close and available."

Mr Freeman, whose wife Joanna died of breast and pancreatic cancer in 2011, added: "I went to Maggie's to seek information and they were good.

"My wife didn't come to Maggie's but I did because there is a moment when someone says 'you're her carer now' which is a terrifying sense of responsibility."

The new centre is the charity's 18th building.

Squadron parades through city's streets

OVER 100 soldiers exercised their right to march through Oxford on Saturday.

In a grand ceremony RAF Reserves from 4624 Squadron paraded from St Giles' down Magdalen Street, Cornmarket and Queen Street and were accompanied by the band of the Royal Air Force College Cranwell.

By Mathew Di Salvo
mathew@taylornewspapers.co.uk

The county council awarded the squadron the prestigious Freedom of the County of Oxfordshire last year, recognising their service to the county and they celebrated this honour with the march.

Council chairman Anne Purse said: "It is a huge privilege to host 4624 Squadron as they exercise their right to parade through the city.

"Oxfordshire has always been a county in which the military has been well represented and the county council is proud to support our Armed Forces."

Crowds applauded reserves from the squadron as they marched with their swords drawn and bayonets fixed.

The march followed the corporate covenant signing in September, where Oxfordshire County Council signed a written voluntary pledge from organisations that wish to express their support to the armed forces community.

Oxfordshire County Council was the first in the country to sign up to the Armed Forces Community Covenant in 2011.

"By recently signing the Corporate Covenant, the council is also highlighting the benefits reservists can bring to local employers, including the council itself which currently employs six reservists," Cllr Purse added.

The squadron was presented with the freedom scroll in the presence of Cllr Purse and the Lord Lieutenant of Oxfordshire Tim Stevenson.

Rob Williams, 4624 squadron commanding officer, said: "A civil body giving the freedom to any military organisation is the highest honour that can be bestowed upon them.

"It recognises the strong ties, trust and community support between both organisations and in the case of 4624 Squadron over 30 years of service to the County of Oxford."

Oxford Half Marathon celebrates Bannister

Rolf Harris prison move?

THE Ministry of Justice refused to confirm rumours on whether entertainer Rolf Harris has been moved from HMP Bullingdon in Bicester due to bullying.

On Monday the Express & Star reported the 84 year old has been transferred to Stafford Prison after he was repeatedly targeted by inmates.

It was alleged in July that Harris was spat at by an inmate during a prison church service.

Ministry of justice spokesperson Simon Letouze said, "We don't comment on individuals."

Harris was jailed for five years and nine months in June at Southwark Crown Court in London for 12 indecent assaults between 1968 and 1986.

The artist and television presenter assaulted four girls and young women aged from seven to 16.

jack@informnewspapers.co.uk

THOUSANDS turned out for the Oxford Half Marathon on Sunday as runners celebrated 60 years since Sir Roger Bannister broke the sub four minute mile in the city.

Runners started and finished at the Kassam Stadium in Grenoble Road and could run a timed mile around the Iffley Road track – dubbed the 'Bannister Mile' – where Sir Roger broke the record.

David Bruce of the Highgate Harriers in London won the men's race, while Kate Niehaus from Oxford was the first woman to cross the line.

Sir Roger said: "Thousands of runners came out to take part in this year's race and what a spectacle it was.

"I'm honoured to have an element of the course named after me.

"The race was fantastically organised and I really enjoyed being part of it during this special year."

Ms Niehaus finished the race in just under one hour and 19 minutes in what was her first ever half marathon.

She added: "I study in Oxford so I regularly run in and around the city which made it all the more special – being able to run a professionally organised race where I was familiar with the route."

Mr Bruce, who lives in Oxford, finished in a time of one hour 11 minutes and 26 seconds, winning the race for a second time after his triumph in 2013.

He said: "I was excited to come back and see how I got on this year.

"The race is getting bigger and bigger each year with noticeable improvements.

"I had a good run and I particularly liked the Bannister Mile aspect which made it stand out from other races."

Sir Roger was presented with a lifetime achievement award by the half marathon's sponsors Vitality before the race.

Flood sensors installed as early warning system

SENSORS monitoring water levels on rivers in and around Oxford have been installed this week to give residents earlier flood warnings.

Technology company Nomnet is trialling an early warning system for flood-prone areas with the River Thames and Cherwell in Oxford the centre of its research.

And the first sensor was installed at Hogacre Common Eco Park in Oxford on Tuesday by consultants Love Hz.

By Jack Johnson
jacking.log@newspapers.co.uk

The trial will use Nomnet's TV white space network to transmit the readings from the sensors which will be secured above water and will calculate levels using ultrasonic measuring.

Nomnet say the information will be open for anyone to access and will be linked to various websites.

Adam Leach, director of Research and Development at Nomnet said: "The sensors will measure the water levels in the local area in real time and send the data instantly over the Internet allowing users to get the most up to date picture of the affected areas."

Oxford and the wider county was badly hit with homes flooded, hundreds of people evacuated from houses, roads closed and power supplies and railway lines affected in January and February.

City council leader Bob Price said he supports the project and added: "We like to see as many measures as possible put in place that will allow people to take precautions in time.

"It is very important that we get early warnings of flood events because that allows us to move quickly.

"The companies are also asking for volunteers who can install sensors in flood risk areas.

Ben Ward, director of Love Hz added: "We encourage local individuals, groups and businesses to join in by finding the locations adopting a sensor.

"The technology lets us understand our environment and share that information to make better decisions and responses as a community."

As winter approaches, Cllr Price said precautionary work such as dredging would be carried out.

He continued: "Our teams are geared up for the event and we are working with the Oxford Area Flood Partnership to work on dredging and cutting back trees.

"The Environment Agency is doing a lot of that work and we are encouraging them to do that as much as possible before the winter."

On the economic recovery

THE prime minister recently announced a future Conservative Government would increase the personal allowance to £12,500 – lifting one million of the lowest paid out of tax altogether and cutting taxes for 30 million more.

He also committed to lowering the 40p tax threshold for middle income families, keeping Britain's Corporation Tax the most competitive in the G7 and stamping out tax abuse by multi nationals.

Under this Government progress has been made in making taxes fairer but until the economy began to recover only small steps could be taken to lower them.

Lower tax economies are stronger, fairer, more flexible and counter intuitively lead to greater revenues as there is less incentive for abuse.

Now we are the fastest growing economy in the developed world.

Youth unemployment in Oxford West and Abingdon has fallen by a staggering 60.0 per cent since 2010 and over 2,000 new businesses have set up.

This is because at painful decisions we have all felt over the last few years but I think we can all feel that things are getting better.

Economists say the deficit will fall by half this year, unemployment is at 6.2 per cent and the UK has created more jobs in the last four years than all 27 EU states put together.

Local businesses simply tell me they feel optimistic again, confident enough to hire new staff and invest new capital.

Last month it was proud to see the national minimum wage rise above inflation to £6.50 – that's the biggest rise in six years. What's more, according to the Low Pay Commission it's set to go up to £8.00 by 2020.

Local residents tell me it is a relief that at last wages are starting to rise above inflation, that jobs are secure and that they are starting to feel the effects of our economic recovery.

It is crucial that as recovery continues we also do whatever we can to restore fairness to the tax system and help people to keep control of more of their hard earned money.

What is a hydro scheme?

• Hydro power schemes control the energy from flow ng water to generate electric ity using e turbine or other device

• There are three types of hydroelectric schemes stor age run-of-river and pumped storage

• The Archimedes screw uses run of-river and is a machine used for transfer ring water from a low lying body of water into irrigation ditches

• Its invention is attributed to Greek inventor Archimedes of Syracuse in the 3rd century BC

• Developers require a per mit from the Environment Agency for hydro schemes

• There are three different capacities for hydroelectric development large-scale (more than 5MW) small scale (less than 5MW) and micro-scale (50kW)

• You can even install your own micro hydro scheme in your back garden

• Around 1 9 per cent of the current total UK generating capacity is produced from hydroelectricity

• The Sandford Hydro scheme will generate 1 600MWh per year enough to power 365 of the 548 homes in the village

• Similar projects are cur rently underway on the pipe line at Osney Lock Abingdon and Goring and are supported by the Low Carbon Hub

Hydro plans for Sandford unveiled

By Jack Johnson
jack@[illegible]newspapers.co.uk

A PLANNING application to build a hydro scheme in Sand ford on Thames that would gen erate enough energy to power 70 per cent of homes in the vil lage with electricity has been submitted

Community energy company Low Carbon Hub handed in an application to install three Archimedes Screw turbines costing £500 000 at Sandford Weir to Vale of White Horse Dis trict Council on September 20

The application is open for consultation until October 20 and the district council is due to make a decision on Novem ber 24

Low Carbon Hub s operations director Adriano Figueiredo says the scheme will generate 1 600 MWh per year the equiva lent of supplying 385 of the 548 households in Sandford with electricity

The project is the brainchild of the Sandford Hydro Commu nity Group and Mr Figueiredo added "We are very confident that it will be approved

First of all it was initially by a local group in the village

• An Archimedes Screw being installed at Osney Lock in March (picture by Andrew Watson)

"They identified that poten tial

"They want it to happen so they can generate green electricity right next to the village "

The electricity generated would be sold and fed into the National Grid.

Also part of the plans is a 170m long fish pass

Sandford on Thames Parish Council has already declared its support for the project

However Kennington Parish Council objected to the plans due to the impact it could have on otters in the area habitats and the environment.

Mr Figueiredo said detailed studies have been carried out on the area and no habitats will be lost while no species were identified.

He added: "We are not build ing a dams or anything that will change anything That is a point that was made

"There is a positive improve ment because at the moment fish cannot migrate up stream

"We will not be creating a negative impact on the imme diate area "

When the project is finished residents will have an opportu nity to become stakeholders in the scheme and therefore it will be community funded

Mr Figueiredo added a similar scheme at Osney Lock in Oxford is to be finished shortly

The Low Carbon Hub is also helping to oversee other hydro projects in Abingdon and Goring and Streatley

Could lie-ins for teens boost exam results?

STUDENTS are to be given an extra hour in bed as part of an Oxford University study aiming to improve GCSE exam results

Over 30 000 Year 10 and 11 pupils across the country will take part in the trials for two years to test whether starting later boosts results – but the schools are yet to be named.

Professor Russell Foster director of the Oxford University Sleep and Circadian Neuroscience Institute is leading the trial

He said "Recent advances in our understanding of the neuroscience of sleep has shown

By Jack Johnson
jackie.taylor@nsnewspapers.co.uk

that the body clock of teenagers is delayed

"This biology along with the impact of social media and other sociocultural influences delays bed and wake times and greatly shortens sleep"

But Oxfordshire headteachers are split on if it could help

Wyll Willis headteacher of Wallingford School said "All these things that are supposed to improve performance in the end it boils down to putting good teachers in front of children and really hard work.

"It just won't fit into the real world. They will leave school later and there will be less family time"

Jo Halliday headteacher at King Alfred's Academy in Wantage said "There is no doubt that sleep should be a priority for all teenage children as they continue to grow rapidly

"I look forward to seeing the results of a later start to the day for the children in the study and, in the meantime hope that all of our students are going to bed at a sensible time"

The university team is also looking into the effect of medium to high cardiovascular activity on academic success

Led by Prof Heidi Johansen-Berg 10 000 year eight pupils in Oxfordshire will take part in the study

Mrs Halliday added "There seems to be a substantial amount of emerging evidence about the physical academic and emotional benefits of exercise in young people

The projects have been awarded grants of £4million and are funded by charities the Wellcome Trust and the Education Endowment Foundation

On tax and Scottish devolution

IN FOUR years we have made a good start on our long-term economic plan but we know the job is far from finished.

We want to make the tax system fairer so people keep more of the money they earn That is why we will cut tax.

We will raise the tax free personal allowance from £10 500 to £12 500

That will take one million more of the lowest paid workers out of income tax altogether and will give a tax cut to 30 million more.

We will also raise the threshold at which people pay the 40p rate from £42 285 to £50 000

This will bring fairness back to the tax system.

If you work hard and do the right thing you should keep more of your own money

We need a welfare system that is fair to those who need it, and fair to the taxpayers who pay for it

The fairest way to reduce welfare bills is to make sure benefits are not rising faster than wages – so all working age benefits in Britain will be frozen for two years

This is the choice Britain needs to make to protect our economic stability

Finally let me comment on the aftermath of the result in Scotland

It is right we should now move to a situation in which English laws are decided by English MPs

This requires quite a small change and does not require massively increasing the cost of politics The Barnett Formula by which money is transferred to Scotland becomes less relevant the more tax powers Scotland gets Scotland will be more dependent on its own tax revenues

In aid of The BRAIN TUMOUR CHARITY

Wallingford School Sponsored Walk 2014

Wallingford School completed a sponsored walk in aid of The Brain Tumour Charity Students and staff walked in memory of Gail Castle, mother to Harry and Jemma, students at Wallingford School.

The 8 mile countryside walk was led by Gail Castle's family along with a procession of over 1000 students and staff close behind.

Determinedly, we all walked on despite the weather forecast ..even getting a little stuck in mud here and there. Along with a wonderful fly past from RAF Benson at Wittenham Clumps, who were training in the area and took these photographs. What a great success..

We are near our target for donations and the sum is still rising Thanks, in no small part, to generous support from the Merchant Taylors' Company Grateful thanks to supportive students, staff and to all in our community who have sponsored our students or donated via our My Donate page

https://mydonate.bt.com/fundraisers/wallingfordschool

"This is the third time I have done the walk and it never ceases to amaze me how the whole school comes together as a community both in the fundraising and the walking itself. It is always for a good cause that is personal and close to our hearts in somewey I am very proud of my Year 7 group for the projected amount they have raised It is now so important that the numbers on paper become a reality. Well done everyone. "

Mr R Lyons (Head of Year 7)

"The sponsored walk is the perfect example of one community working selflessly together to help others."

Mr S Leeds (Deputy Head)

There is a very personal message from Harry Castle on the school's website that captures our motive for taking on this challenge

Calling Santas to ditch the sleigh for charity

IT IS that time of year again when thousands of Santas are getting set to take over the streets of Oxford to raise money for charity

Registration opened last week for the eighth Santas on the Run event on Sunday December 14

Organised by hospice Helen & Douglas House last year's run raised £70 000 for the Oxford-based charity that cares for children and young adults with life-shortening conditions

The two mile festive run takes participants through the centre of Oxford and University Parks

Poppy Henbury activity and events manager at Helen & Douglas House said last year's event sold out two weeks in advance and the money raised helped to fund 10 days of care over Christmas

She added "Christmas is a special time for families and even more so for those who visit Helen & Douglas House.

By Jack Johnson
jack@witneynewspapers.co.uk

"Each year we try and make the time leading up to the festive season memorable with lots of festive parties music and pantomimes as well as our annual Santa Run.

"We are finding that more people are entering as teams from local companies families and friends and schools because it is great fun."

Participants are given a free Santa suit race number sunglasses and a medal.

To complete the Christmas spectacle runners are constantly spurred on by jolly elves on the route

Geoff Munday from Abingdon took part last year and said "It was a great day

"It was the first time I've ever done a sponsored run. Amazing people amazing atmosphere amazing cause

"Thanks to the elves you all made such a difference."

Entry is £17 for 12-year olds and over or £12 for children for five to 12 years-old. Children under five are free

To sign up for this year's event visit helenanddouglas.org.uk.

Memorial put on hold

A DECISION for a memorial to volunteers who fought in the Spanish Civil War to be built in Bonn Square was deferred by city councillors last week.

The International Brigades Memorial Trust (IBMT) wants to put up a granite stone in the square to remember the seven volunteers from Oxford who lost their lives during the war between 1936 and 1939.

But the West Area Planning Committee which met on October 8 at Oxford Town Hall St Aldate's, decided to postpone the decision until the next meeting on November 12 because of reservations over the memorial's size.

Councillors had been advised in an officer's report to refuse the application because the memorial was seen as "visually intrusive".

Vice-chair of the committee Michael Gotch (musel) said "It was deferred because every body in the room including the planning committee was sympathetic towards the purpose of the memorial.

Most people thought that Bonn Square was quite a good place to have it but there were some reservations about the size of it and that it is a large stone.

The applicants have the opportunity of negotiating with the officers to have a more modest plaque or stone agreed on.

A memorial already stands in the middle of Bonn Square for soldiers who died in an 1897 to 1898 battle against rebel tribes in British India.

Director Chris Harris told the Oxfordshire Guardian what the audi ences should expect

We've got songs a few battles and some jokes " he said

"The songs are those of the early 20th Century notably fvor Novello's classic Keep the Home Fires Burn ing along with other songs which were sung in trenches

"They ll be some knockabout fun in the grouse shooting along with rolling news panel caphons recruitment post ers advertisements and of course the story of how the war progressed

"I do not think there is another theat rical piece in English which offers such a nuxture of styles and emohons

"It s truly a masterpiece "

Harris also stated that the t00th anniversary of Britain s entry into the war was "relevant" for the pr oduction going ahead.

Some members of the company are contributing stories about their ances tor s roles in the war " he said.

"Also, when t check the news t see that war never seems to go away So the play is perennially relevant as well, expectally this year

Oh! What a Lovely War was first staged in 1963 by theatre director Joan Littlewood before Richard Attenbor ough adapted the production into a musical film in 1969

Harris who has been directing the production for the last t0 weeks said he was "hugely privileged to be part of a piece of musical theatre that once starred legendary actors/actresses, such as Maggie Smith and Laurence Olivier

The tragedy of Othello

BETRAYAL, jealousy, murder, sex and paranoia all take centre stage in Shakespeare's thriller tragedy 'Othello' at the Oxford Playhouse next week.

By James Richings
james.richings@oxfordmailpapers.co.uk

The Moorish prince appointed general for the Venetian army is falsely told his wife Desdemona has been unfaithful.

Othello takes matters into his own hands with devastating and regrettable consequences.

Written between 1601-1604, the adaptation coming to Oxford from Tuesday October 21 to Saturday October 25 is performed by the Frantic Assembly Theatre Company.

Mark Ebulue, playing the title character prince, said it is a story that still resonates.

"I really feel that 'Othello' is still relevant today," the Peckham actor told the Oxfordshire Guardian.

"I believe in today's society there are still issues of race.

"Although these issues might be less obvious than they were a few decades ago I do still feel there's an underlying awareness of people being different, and that's all at the forefront of Shakespeare's writing."

He added: "There is also a locus on jealousy and that is obviously every where in our lives.

"We're jealous of other people's cars, what people wear, what people have and sometimes even what they don't have.

"So I think these themes from the play are still really strong today and so relevant to a modern audience."

Since the 1600s there have been countless adaptions of the nail-biting thriller.

Ebulue, who has also been in 'Doctor Who' and 'Casualty' described the fight scenes and choreography as "exciting".

Ticket prices are £11 to £26.50 for the show, suitable for over 14s.

Housing market speeding up before Christmas

As the nights start to draw in Connells estate agency in Cowley is pleased to report several rays of light in the local property market

The agent has experienced a rush of activity as homeowners look to secure a sale and move before the Christmas holiday season begins

As a result it has relaunched its Six Week Challenge campaign giving homeowners a chance to sell their property in record time and for the best price

The campaign is designed to help those looking to move home find a buyer more quickly

Utilising all of the team s expertise and knowledge of the housing market Connells pulls out all the stops to get participating properties off the market in under six weeks.

"There are many reasons why people want to sell their homes as quickly as possible " Connells lettings manager Helen Kennington said

"For many it is down to personal circumstances such as relocating for work while some have set their sights on a dream home and need to secure a sale on their current property before putting in an offer

"Whatever the reason Connells Six Week Challenge is designed to help these individuals achieve a sale in a short timeframe

"We've run this campaign before with much success so I would urge anyone wanting to sell their home quickly to contact us at the branch and achieve winning results in just six weeks "

Connells is seeing a greater degree of confidence across the market from sellers

Helen added "It is not unusual at this time of year to see more people looking to move

"We often find with the summer over and children back at school people can turn their attention to moving home

"Whether you are buying for the first time upsizing downsizing or looking for that ultimate dream home now is a great time to get the ball rolling if you want to move before Christmas "

If you are interested in taking part in Connells Six Week Challenge and would like to book a free market appraisal contact the Connells branch by calling 01865 749 645 or email the agents at oxfordlet@connells co uk

Capital growth numbers looking good for Oxford's post codes

Lettings manager at Oxford estate and lettings agents Martin and Co, Richard Goodwin on growth in the city's housing market

I recently published findings on Oxford s top three locations to buy for investment

In particular I looked at average property price vs yield return

But "it's no good having a decent yield if my house ain t appreciating Richard" - was put to me so eloquently by a client after my recent post

And they are of course absolutely spot on so here they are folks - from over a five year growth period

- OX1 average price £427 000 Capital growth +22 per cent
- OX2 average price £531 000 Capital growth +20 5 per cent
- OX3 average price £343 000 Capital growth +23 per cent
- OX4 average price £244 000 Capital growth +23 1 per cent
- OX5 average price £325 000 Capital growth +21 5 per cent

Cowley strikes again then it offers both a positive capital growth and an average 5 5 per cent yield

That said the growth and yields on offer are good for most Oxford locations so landlords will rest easy knowing that Oxford offers no general restrictions when buying for investment. Proof of this?

Oxford s five year capital growth and yield breakdown

- Capital Growth- 22 per cent
- Yield Growth - 5 5 per cent

The super Alvin bro's

By James Richings
james @oxfordnewspapers.co.uk

MUSICAL brothers Dave and Phil Alvin are stopping off in Cowley Road next week as part of their world tour

The American siblings will be at the Art Bar on Thursday October 23 for a mixture of music compiled by the pair over the years

They came to prominence in the late 1970s and early 1980s in rock blues band The Blasters

In June this year the brothers released their first album together since 1985 Common Ground which received critical acclaim from music magazines

Younger of the two Dave Alvin 58 told the Oxfordshire Guardian "People attending the show can expect to hear a wide selection of music but with a heavy accent on the blues

"We'll be performing songs from our new album of Big Bill Broonzy compositions as well as songs I wrote for my various solo albums

"We will also perform a few older numbers."

The well-travelled musician, who is also a poet, producer and occasional actor has performed in the UK a number of times

I first toured in the UK back in 1982 as a member of The Blasters with my brother" he said

"I performed at The Art Bar back in 2012 with my band, 'The Guilty Ones' and I felt right at home It was hot, loud and a bit sweaty

"The audience was enthusiastic knowledgeable about my 38 year body of work and some of them were quite expressive dancers You can't ask for much more"

The younger Alvin brother said he plans to relax by playing more music when the tour is over

He asked "Is there another better way of relaxing?"

The £19 80 gig starts from 7 30pm.

DRIVEWAY RENOVATION

We also provide a block driveway renovation service. If you have a driveway that's looking a little worse for wear and you don't want to go the whole way and replace it, simply give us a call and we can come and restore it to its former glory.

We employ a simple three stage renovation process when restoring old driveways: clean, sand and seal. The first stage is a straightforward cleaning of your driveway removing any accumulated grime and rejuvenating the paving. After this we sweep sand across your driveway to fill the grooves between the blocks restoring the evenness and uniformity of your driveway. Finally, when renovating non-permeable driveways we apply a waterproofing sealant, which aids and sheds water runoff and drainage.

Lord Baker visits MINI Plant Oxford

LORD Baker, the mastermind behind University Technical Colleges, visited the MINI Plant in a bid to encourage more local businesses to get behind the scheme

Oxfordshire UTC based in Didcot, is set to open in September 2015 specialising in life sciences, physical sciences and engineering Activate Learning is the lead sponsor and has already opened a UTC in Reading The college is being backed by industrial supporters, including MINI Plant Oxford, as well as Reading and Royal Holloway Universities

The technical college is aimed at ensuring that young people gain specialist skills and knowledge relevant for today's high-tech industries and where they can study in a professional environment to help them prepare for the a career in business and industry

Lord Baker and the UTC's new principal, Owain Johns, were shown around the MINI Plant's training school

Lord Baker, Chairman of the Baker Dearing Educational Trust, said "This is an impressive example of industry working closely with education to provide valuable local training This is why I am delighted that MINI Plant Oxford is a partner in the creation of the new UTC Oxfordshire

"The UTC will offer young people across the region the chance to combine an academic education with an opportunity to learn the essential technical and practical skills needed to pursue careers in sectors like advanced engineering There is an urgent need for these skills and I am confident that MINI Plant Oxford, and other businesses in the area, will benefit a great deal from this new source of talent"

Plant Oxford has a long established apprenticeship programme which lasts between three and four years and covers a wide range of skills from human resources and business to electrical maintenance and engineering. The plant currently has 119 apprentices going through the scheme

Simon Farrall, head of apprentice and associate training at BMW Group UK, said "Investment in young people is a key part of our development strategy for the plants We need to foster the development of talented young engineers and technicians to become the MINI employees of the future. The UTC supports this objective by providing us with a steady stream of suitable candidates"

The Oxfordshire UTC will admit up to 600 young people aged 14 to 19 and MINI Plant Oxford will provide curriculum advice, project support and visits

Owain Johns, the new Principal of Oxfordshire UTC said "We are delighted that today we could bring together Lord Baker s wealth of experience of success and good practice in UTCs across the country and gain insight and understanding of BMW s training expertise We are currently in the curriculum design phase for September 2015, being able to work with one of our lead partners will mean that we can shape a curriculum that results in students who are prepared for the world of work

Ford offers up its newest green SUV for £14,995 to £16,495 in petrol and diesel

Second generation EcoSport

REVIEW: Ford EcoSport

By James Richings

SINCE its introduction to the world in 1903, Ford has released a number of iconic vehicles we witness on a daily basis.

The Escort, the Focus, the Mondeo and the Fusion spring to mind.

And the car giant has added a second generation Ford EcoSport to the line.

The latest edition has a high ground clearance, front and rear skid plates and rear mounted spare wheel.

It includes 16" alloy wheels, front and rear skid plates, a rear mounted spare wheel and silver roof rails.

For modcons the new EcoSport includes an internal calls and music system used by voice command, from which you can also access text messages.

It comes in either a petrol or a diesel motor.

The car's body shape and design details like the rear pillar 'kickers' are meant to deliver a lower wind resistance and aim to give better fuel efficiency.

The new 1.0 litre three-cylinder Ecoboost petrol engine claims to give you all the power you would expect from a conventional 1.6 engine (up to 125 PS), while delivering around 24 per cent better fuel economy and 25 per cent lower CO2 emissions.

In the 1.5 litre DV5 diesel option, you can enjoy up to 91PS of power as well as 61.4 combined mpg fuel efficiency.

This advanced engine is available with a five speed manual transmission that delivers high torque (for fewer gear changes and pulling power) and CO2 emissions of just 120g/km.

In recognition of its advanced technology and exceptional efficiency Eco-Boost has been awarded International Engine of the Year on two separate occasions.

Prices for the latest generation of the Ford EcoSport will range from £14,995 to £16,495.

Scott upbeat despite sixth successive loss

By Jack Johnson
jack@oxfordnewspapers.co.uk

NICK Scott believes results will eventually go London Welsh's way after an improved performance in last Saturday's 23-3 defeat at home to Newcastle Falcons.

The visitors condemned Welsh to a sixth straight Aviva Premiership loss leaving them eight points adrift at the bottom of the table.

However the Exiles were left heartened by a determined performance where only a cutting edge was lacking.

Welsh spent almost the entire second half camped in Newcastle's 22 but they could not find a way through the visitors' defence.

"It's been a tough start," said Scott.

"But even after bad results everyone has come in and been ready to work hard.

"Last weekend showed that what we are doing on the training pitch is coming through and we need to keep plugging away.

"We do have a good bunch of guys and I am sure we will get some wins and points coming our way."

The Exiles now have a four-week break from the league with European Rugby Champions Cup and LV= Cup fixes dominating the fixtures.

And the winger is hoping the next month will stand Welsh in good stead ahead of the next round of the Aviva Premiership against London Wasps on November 16.

Scott said: "We look at these four weeks as a massive period.

"It will be vital for either giving players who have played a lot a rest or giving people chances who deserve it and trying different combinations to see what best suits us.

"On Saturday we put a performance in for 80 minutes and the spirit was definitely there but we're disappointed with the result."

The winger added: "But it's only six games and we're looking forward to the next four weeks which we think are important to readjust."

The Exiles travel to France on Saturday as they face Lyon in the European Rugby Champions Cup at the Matmut Stadium.

City put to the sword by Solihull Moors

OXFORD City's two-match winning run in the Vanarama Conference North came to an abrupt end last Saturday as they were thumped 4-1 at home by Solihull Moors.

Justin Merrill's men would have moved up to second with a win, but instead they remain third in the table, four points behind AFC Fylde.

Darren Byfield (2), Omar Bogle and Ryan Beswick scored for the visitors while Marlon Jackson netted City's consolation.

Byfield tapped home in the first half after Mark Scott had denied Beswick before Bogle made it 2-0.

City pushed for a goal after the break but the match was all but ended as a contest when Beswick and Byfield scored within four minutes of each other.

Jackson converted Declan Benjamin's cross shortly after but it turned out to be just a consolation.

City will now look to bounce back from the defeat as they make the trip to Lowestoft Town on Saturday.

Lowestoft have lost their last three games in the Vanarama Conference North, scoring only once in the process, and are 17th in the table.

City's next home game is on October 25 when they welcome Hednesford Town to Marsh Lane.

Burnell in fighting mood as Exiles look to prove their worth in top-flight

HEAD coach Justin Burnell said he will "not shy away from a fight!" after London Welsh were condemned to a sixth straight defeat in the Aviva Premiership last Saturday.

The Exiles were beaten 23-3 by Newcastle Falcons at the Kassam Stadium last weekend and are rooted to the bottom of the table.

Burnell's side will now turn their attention to the European Rugby Challenge Cup and the LV= Cup over the next four weeks before the Premiership reconvenes on November 16.

He said: "I don't think the league was decided on Saturday – there's 16 games to go.

"We've got a lot of spirit and we have got a lot of fight.

"We've just got to keep chipping away and working. I'm never one to shy away from a fight."

The Exiles face Lyon in the European Rugby Challenge Cup on Saturday and Burnell has described the next month as "enormous" for his side.

"It's a crucial time for us – to assess where we're at," he said.

"We've got to look at different combinations, we've also got to get back up to a level of freshness.

"This next four weeks is absolutely enormous for us."

TIME TO STEP UP THE GAME

TOM Newey says Oxford United need to show a reaction this weekend after last Saturday's hammering at Cambridge United.

United were beaten 5-1 at the Abbey Stadium and slipped back into the relegation zone, having recorded only two wins so far this season.

Top scorer Danny Hylton headed United ahead on nine minutes but Kwesi Appiah scored twice just before half time.

Ryan Donaldson, Tom Elliott and Robbie Simpson all scored in the second half to condemn United to their heaviest defeat under head coach Michael Appleton.

The U's welcome bottom side Tranmere Rovers to the Kassam Stadium on Saturday and Newey says a response is needed.

He added: "It (last Saturday) was nowhere near good enough.

"Everybody played poor, there were no positives.

"We need to address it now, work hard, individually and collectively, put the work in and make sure we meet the standards that we need to meet."

United have taken 10 points from 12 games so far this season and started well against Cambridge last Saturday when Hylton headed home Newey's cross.

However, the goal seemed to be just what Cambridge needed to get going and they deservedly hit back on 41 minutes when Appiah thumped the ball into the top corner on the half-volley.

The hosts soon made it 2-1 as Appiah took advantage of Michael Collins' loose pass and beat Clarke at the second attempt.

It seemed all but over as a contest when Donaldson slotted home on 54 minutes and then Elliott headed in a fourth just moments later.

Simpson further added to United's misery by tapping home on 89 minutes and Newey admitted he and his teammates simply did not perform well enough on the day.

The left-back said: "As individuals we know and collectively we know.

"It is down to us when we cross that white line and we were second best all over the pitch.

"We took the lead and probably deserved to because we started quite bright.

"But pretty much from then Clarkey's kept us in it and we have conceded two goals just before half time and then in the second half we were just very, very poor.

Saturday's kick-off is at 3pm.
